Kirkwood board welcomes new members

CLINTON COUNTY — Three people have joined the Kirkwood Ministries Inc. Board of Trustees for the 2015-16 year.

The KMI board welcomes Nathan Cooper, Linda Miller and Pam Wallace. Cooper has served as pastor for the Senior High Camp the past six years, and grew up attending camps at Kirkwood.

He has also served as a counselor and director at Kirkwood camps. Cooper lives in Gahanna, Ohio where he works at a restaurant and plans to enroll in school to finish education in order to pursue ordination to serve as a senior pastor.

Miller has directed the Junior High Camp at Kirkwood for the last 25 years. She lives in Washington Court House, Ohio with her husband, Doug.

Together they farm, along with their sons and family members. Both of Miller's sons have been long-time campers and counselors. Those who attended the Friends & Family Fall Day at Kirkwood in September saw their band, Revolving Door, perform. Both sons are married and expecting babies, making Miller a grandmother.

Wallace has been involved with Camp Kirkwood for many years, having spent several summers camping in the RV Park and attending the annual Bible & Missions Conferences on Labor Day weekends. She has voluntarily maintained Camp Kirkwood's website since the Miami Baptist Association purchased the camp.

Wallace, of Cincinnati, is the director of program management for a publishing services and content development company in Cleveland.

She has two grown sons, one who was a member and president of the Ohio ABC Youth Core, and another who worked at Camp Kirkwood a few summers.
